Jeanette's Romeo

It was a beautiful, spring day outside. The flowers were all in bloom, and the sun was shining bright. Jeanette Miller was doing her favorite outdoor activity, reading a book. The book happened to be her favorite, Romeo and Juliet. It was a tale of love and passion, no matter what would happen. Jeanette's emerald green eyes were glued to every page, reading and observing every word on it. The shy chipette always had a single wish, which was to have a romance like the characters in her book. She wants to feel that special connection, and have passion in her heart.

Sometimes when she reads this certain book, Jeanette is stuck in a daydream. She imagines a romantic scene with a special someone. She's a princess, looking from her tower. She's patiently waiting for her beau to come. And finally, a blue-eyed, blue clad chipmunk is serenading her, singing songs of romance. The fair maiden's heart is warm, but she hears footsteps.

It was Simon Seville.

"Huh!?" Jeanette awakes from her daze. She fixes her rounded, pink glasses, and she sees Simon walking by her house. He had just come back from the local library, carrying a stack of books. The brainy chipmunk loved to read as well, which was one thing Jeanette loved about him. She calls from her porch, "Hi There, Simon!".

Simon peeks over, and smiles. "Hi Jeanette!" he greets back, and walks up to his counterpart. He lays his stack of books on the small table, and he notices the book Jeanette was holding in her hands.

"Whatcha Reading?," He asks sweetly.

Jeanette smiles at him. "Romeo and Juliet," she giggled, "It says it on the cover silly!"

Simon gave out a small chuckle, and Jeanette came up with a great idea. "Would you like to read it with me?"

"I'm delighted!" Simon replied. And so, the two best friends decided to make themselves comfortable by a big oak tree. They sat down, and Simon held one side of the book. Jeanette had the other. They read silently, but at the same pace. Jeanette enjoyed Simon's company. She put her head on his shoulder, and said,

"You're my Romeo."
